About
Mike Green
<http://mike-green.org>

Mike Green is a member of the ABCD Institute and Training Group. Mike has worked more than 25 years in community organizing for social change and community development. Mike is also a parent of a person with a developmental disability. Mike believes a common dilemma felt by many in our communities is a lack of power. Our answer to many issues faced is organized relationships among family, friends and allies—the power to build the world we want is in relationships.

About The ABCD Training Group

In partnership with Northwestern University's Asset-Based Community Development Institute, the ABCD Training Group focuses on knowledge and practical skills for putting ABCD into action.

The program is designed for Neighborhood professionals and community leaders interested in inclusive communities and neighborhoods.
